Sanyari, outside the cave

Ture division of days and nights is not for me, nor that of months and years. For me, the stream of time has stopped, on whose waves dances the world, like stroug and twies. In this dark cave I am alone, merged in myself—and the eternal night is still, like a mountain lake afraid of its own depth. Water cores and drupt from the cracks, and in the post float the ancient frees. I s't elemning the incontaining of nothingness. The world's limits recede, line after line—The God Shiva, when, after gons of dream, he wakes up to find himself alone in the heart of the infinite annihilation. I am free, I am the great solitary One. When I was thy slave, O Nature, thou didst set my heart against itself, and madest it carry that lov is thme which comes to the the Berce war of suicide through its world. Desires, that have no other ends but to feed upon themselves and all that comes to their mouths, lashed me into fury. I ran about, madly chasing my shadow. Thou drovest me with thy lightning lashes of pleasure into the void of satiety. And the hungers, who are thy decoys, ever led me into the endless famine, where foodsturned into dust, and drink into vapour. Till, when my world was spotted with tears and ashes, I took my oath, that I would have revenge upon thee interminable. Appearance, mistress of endless disguises. I took shelter in the darkness,—the eastle of the Infinite,—and fought the deceitful light, day after day, till it lost all its weapons and lay powerless at my feet. Now, when I am free of fear and desires, when the mist has vanished and my reason shues pure and bright, the me go out into the kingdom of lies, and sit upon its heart, untouched and unmoved.

Sanyasi, by the roadside

How small is this earth and confined, watched and followed by the persistent horizons. The trees, houses, and crowd of things are pressing upon my eyes. The light, like a cage, has shut out the dark eternity; and the hours hop and cry within its barriers, like prisoned birds. But why are these noisy men rushing on, and for what purpose? They seem always afraid of missing something,—the something that never comes to their hands.

[The crowd passes.

(Enter a VILLAGE ELDER and Two WOMEN.)

First Woman

O my, O my! You do make me laugh,

Second Woman

But who says you are old?

Village Elder

There are fools who judge men by their outside.

First Woman

How sad! We have been watching your outside from our infancy. It is just the same all through these years.

Village Elder

Like the morning sun.

First Woman

Yes, like the morning sun in its

Village Elder

Ladies, you are over-critical in your taste. You notice things that are unessential.

Second Woman

Leave off your chatter, Ananga. Let us hasten home, or my man will be angry.

First Woman

Good-bye, sir. Please judge us from our outside, we won't mind that.

Village Elder

Because you have no inside to speak of.

[They go.

He

(Enter THREE VILLAGERS.)

First Villager

Insult me? the scoundre!!

Second Villager

He must be taught a thorough lesson.

First Villager

A lesson that will follow him to his grave.

Third Villager

Yes, brother, set your heart upon it. Never give him quarter.

Second Villager

He has grown too big.

First Villager

Big enough to burst at last.

Third Villager

The ants, when they begin to grow wings, perish.

SACRIFICE

Second Villager

But have you got a plan?

10

First Villager

[They go.

(Enter Two STUDENTS.)

First Student

· I am sure Professor Madhab won in the debate,

Second Student

No, it was Professor Janardan.

First Student

Professor Madhab maintained his point to the last. He said that the subtle is the outcome of the gross.

Second Student

But Professor Janardan conclusively proved that the subtle is the origin of the gross.

First Student Impossible.

Second Student

It is clear as the daylight.

First Student

Seeds come from the tree.

Second Student

The tree comes from the seed.

First Student

Sanvasi, which of these is true? Which is the original, the subtle or the gross?

Sanyasi

Neither.

Second Student

Neither. Well, that sounds satisfactory.

Sanuasi

The origin is the end, and the end is the origin. It is a circle.—The distinction between the subtle and gross is in your ignorance.

First Student

Well, it sounds very simple—and I think this was what my master meant.

Second Student

Certainly this agrees more with what my master teaches.

[They go out.

Sanyasi

These birds are word-peckers. When they pick up some wriggling nonsense, which can fill their mouth, they are happy.

(Enter Two Flower-Girls, singing.)

Song

The weary hours pass by.

The flowers that blossom in the light Fade and drop in the shadow.

I thought I would weave a garland In the cool of the morning for my love.

But the morning wears on, The flowers are not gathered, And my love is lost.

14 SACRIFICE

A Wayfarer

Why such regret, my darings? When the garlands are ready, the necks will not be wanting.

First Flower-Girl Nor the halter.

Second Florner-Girl

You are bold. Why do you come so close?

Wayfarer

You quarrel for nothing, my girl. I am far enough from you to allow an elephant to pass between us.

Second Flower-Girl

Indeed. Am I such a fright? I wouldn't have eaten you, if you had come [They go out laughing.

(Comes an old BEGGAR.)

Reggar

Kind sirs, have pity on me. May God prosper you. Give me one handful from your plenty.

(Enters a SOLDIER.)

Soldier

Move away. Don't you see the Minister's son is coming? [They go out.

Sanyasi

It is mid-day. The sun is growing strong. The sky looks like an overturned burning copper bowl. The earth breathes hot sights, and the whiting sands dance by. What sights of man have I seen! Can I ever again shink back into the smallness of these creature, and become one of them?

Vasanti

I assure you, your cloth did not touch me. (The WOMAN goes.) I am Vasanti, Raghu's daughter. May 1 come to you, father?

Sanuasi

Why not, child?

Vasanti

I am a pollution, as they call me.

Sanyasi

But they are all that,—a pollution. They roll in the dust of existence. Only he is pure who has washed away the world from his mind. But what have you done, daughter?

Vasanti

My father, who is dead, had defied their laws and their gods. He would not perform their rites.

Sanyasi

Why do you stand away from me?

Vasanti

Will you touch me?

Sanyasi

Yes, because nothing can touch me truly. I am ever away in the endless. You can sit here, if you wish.

Vasanti

(Breaking into a sob.) Never tell me to leave you, when once you have taken me near you.

Sanyasi

Wipe away your tears, child. I am a Sanyasi. I have neither hatred, nor attachment in my heart.—I never claim you as mine; therefore I can never discard you. You are to me as this blue sky is,—you are,—yet you are not.

...

Vasanti

Father, I am descried by gods and

Sanyasi

So am L I have descried both gods and men.

V asanti

You have no mother?

Sanuosi

No.

Vasanti Nor father ?

Sanyasi

No.

Vasanti

Nor any friend?

Sanyasi

No.

Sanyasi

Shelter there is nowhere, my son, but in the depth of one's self.—Seek that; hold to it fast, if you would be saved.

Traveller

But I am tired, and want shelter.

Vasanti

My hut is not far from here. Will you come?

Traveller

But who are you?

Fasanti

Must you know me? I am Raghu's daughter. Traveller

First Bearer

He is still asleep.

Second Bearer

How heavy the rascal is !

A Traveller (outside their group)
Whom do you carry?

Third Bearer

Bindé, the weaver, was sleeping asone dead, and we have taken himaway.

Second Bearer

But I am tired, brothers. Let usgive him a shake, and waken him up-

Bindê (wakes up)

Ec, a, u----

Third Bearer

What's that noise?

Bindê

I say. Who are you? Where am I being carried?

They put down the bed from their shoulders.

Third Bearer

Can't you keep quiet, like all decent dead people?

Second Bearer

The check of him! He must talk, even though he is dead.

Third Bearer

It would be more proper of you, if you kept still.

Rinde

I am sorry to disappoint you, gentlemen, you have made a mistake.—I was not dead, but fast asleep.

Second Bearer

I admire this fellow's impudence. Not only must he die, but argue.

Third Bearer

He won't confess the truth. Let us go, and finish the rites of the dead.

Binde

I swear by your beard, my brother, I am as alive as any of you.

[They take him away, laughing.

Sanyasi

The girl has fallen asleep, with her arm beneath her little head; I think

Woman

Go now. Leave me. Don't talk. to me of love.

First Man

Why, what has been my crime?

Woman

You men have hearts of stone.

First Man

Incredible. If our hearts were of stone, how could Cupid's darts makedamage there?

Other Man

Bravo. Well said.

Second Man

Now, what is your answer to that, my dear?

me this touch has something of the great darkness, which touches one's soul with the wand of the eternal.—
But, child, you are the moth of the daylight. You have your birds and flowers and fields—what can you find in me, who have my centre in the One and my circumference nowhere?

Vasanti

I do not want anything else. Your love is enough for me.

Sanuasi

The girl imagines I love her,—foolish heart. She is happy in that thought. Let her nourish it. For they have been brought up in illusions, and they must have illusions to console them.

Vasanti

Father, this creeper trailing on the grass, seeking some tree to twine itself round, is my creeper. I have tended it and watered it from the time when it had pushed up only two little leaves into the air, like an infant's cry. This creeper is me,—it has grown by the road-side, it can be so easily crushed. Do you see these beautiful little flowers, pale blue with white spots are their dreams. Let me gently brush your forchead with these flowers. To me, things that are beautiful are the keys to all that I have not seen and not known.

Sanyasi

No, no, the beautiful is mere phantasy. To him who knows, the dust and the flower are the same.—But what languor is this that is ereeping into my blood and drawing before my eyes a thin mist well of all the rainbow colours? I sit Nature herself weaving her dreams round me, clouding my senses ? (Suddenly he tears the creeper, and rises up.) No more of this; for this is death. What game of yours is this with me, little girl? I am a Sanyasi, I have cut all my knots, I am free.-No, no, not those tears. I cannot bear them .- But where was hidden in my heart this snake, this anger, that hissed out of its dark with its fang ? No, they are not dead,they outlive starvation. These hellcreatures clatter their skeletons and dance in my heart, when their mistress, the great witch, plays upon her magic flute.-Weep not, child, come to me. You seem to me like a cry of a lost world, like the song of a wandering star. You bring to my mind something, which is infinitely more than this Nature,-more than the sun and stars. It is as great as the darkness. I understand it not. I have never known it, therefore I fear it. I must leave you.—Go back whence you came,—the messenger of the unknown.

Vasanti

Leave me not, father,—I have none else but you.

Sanyasi

I must go, I thought that I had known,—but I do not know. Yet I must know. I leave you, to know who you are.

L'atanti

Father, if you leave me, I shall die.

Sanpan

Let go my hand. Do not touch me. I must be free -

[He runt array.

Ш

(The Sanyasi is seen, sitting upon a boulder in a mountain path. A shepherd boy passes by, singing.)

THE SONG

Do not turn away your face, my love, The spring has bared open its breast. The flowers breathe their secrets in the dock

The rustle of the forest leaves comes across the sku.

Like the sobs of the night. Come, love, show me your face.

Sanyasi

The gold of the evening is melting in the heart of the blue sea. The forest, on the hillside, is drinking the last cup of the daylight. On the left, the village huts are seen through the trees with their evening lamps lighted, like a veiled mother watching by her sleeping children. Nature, thou art my slave. Thou hast spread thy many-coloured carpet in the great hall where I sit alone, like a king, and watch thee dance with thy starry necklace twinkling on thy breast, SHEPHERD GIRLS pass by, singing.

SONG OF THE SHEPHERD GIRLS The music comes from across the dark river and calle me I was in the house and happy. But the flute sounded in the still air of night. And a vain vierced my heart. Oh, tell me the way who know it,-

Tell me the wan to him.

I will go to him with my one little flower.

And leave it at his feet,

And tell him that his music is one with my love.

[They go.

Sanyasi

I think such an evening lad come to me only once before in all my births. Then its cup overbrimmed with love and music, and I sat with some one, the memory of whose face in that setting star of the evening.—But where is my little girl, with her dark sad eyes, big with tears? I sake there, sitting outside her hut, watching that same star through the immense loneliness of the evening? But the star must set the evening dose ing that same star through the immense loneliness of the evening? But the star must set, the evening close her eyes in the night, and tears must cease and sobs be stilled in sleep. No, I will not go back. Let the worlddreams take their own shape. Let me not trouble its course and create new phantasies. I will see, and think, and know.

(Enters a ragged GIRL.)

Girl

Are you there, father ?

Sanuasi

Come, child, sit by me. I wish I could own that call of yours. Some one did call me father, once, and the voice was somewhat like yours. The father answers now,—but where is that call?

Who are you?

Sanyasi

I am a Sanyasi Tell me, child, what is your father ?

Girl

He gathers sticks from the forest.

Sanyasi

And you have a mother?

Girl

No. She died when I was young-

Sanyasi

Do you love your father?

Girl

I love him more than anything else in the world. I have no one else but him

Sanuasi

I understand you. Give me your little hand,—let me hold it in my palm,—in this big palm of mine.

Girl

Sanyasi, do vou read palms? Can you read in my pain; all that I am and shall be?

Sanyasi

I think I can read, but dimly know its meaning. One day I shall know it.

Girl

Now I must go to meet my father.

Sanuasi

Where ?

Girl

Where the road goes into the forest. He will miss me, if he does not find me there.

Sanyasi

Bring your head near to me, child. Let me give you my kiss of blessing before you go. [Girlgoes.

(A MOTHER enters, with two children.)

Mother

How stout and chubby Misri's children are. They are something to look at. But the more I feed you, the more you seem to grow thin every day.

First Girl

But why do you always blame us for that, mother? Can we help it?

Mother

Don't I tell you to take plenty of rest? But you must always be running about.

Second Girl

But, mother, we run about on your errands.

Mother

How dare you answer me like that?

Sanuare

Where are you going, daughter?

girls. (To the girls.) Go and salute the Sanyasi. Biess them, father. [They go.

(Enter Two Men.)

First Man
Friend, go back from here. Do not come any farther.

Second Man
Yes, I know. Friends meet in this earth by chance, and the chance carries us on together some portion of the way, and then comes the moment when we must part.

Second Friend

Let us carry away with us the hope that we part to meet again.

First Friend

Our meetings and partings belong to all the movements of the world. Stars do not take special notice of us.

Second Friend

Let us salute those stars which did' throw us together. If for a moment, still it has been much.

First Friend

Look back for a minute betore you go. Can you see that faint glimmer of the water in the dark, and those rawarina trees on the sandy bank? Our village is all one heap of dark shadows. You can only see the lights. Can you guess which of those lights are ours?

Second Friend

Yes, I think I can.

First Friend

That light is the last farewell look our past days upon their parting guest. A little farther on, and there will remain one blot of darkness. They go away.

44 SACRIFICE

Sanyasi

The night grows dark and desolate. It sits like a woman forsaken,-those stars are her tears turned into fire. O my child, the sorrow of your little heart has filled, for ever, all the nights of my life with its sadness. Your dear caressing hand has left its touch in this night air,-I feel it on my forehead,-it is damp with your tears.

My darling, your sobs that pursued me, when I fled away, have clung to . my heart. I shall carry them to my death.

Sanuasi, in the village nath

Let my vows of Sanyasi go. I break my staff and my alms-bowl. This stately ship, this world, which is crossing the sea of time.-let it take me up again, let me join once more the pilgrims. Oh the fool, who wanted to seek safety in swimming alone, and gave up the light of the sun and stars. to pick his way with his glow-worm's lamp! The bird flies in the sky, not to fly away into the emptiness, but to come back again to this great earth.-I am free. I am free from the bodiless chain of the Nav. I am free among things, and forms and purpose. The finite is the true infinite, and love knows its truth. My girl, you are the spirit of all that is,— I can never leave you.

(Enters a VILLAGE ELDER.)

Sanyasi

Do you know, brother, where Raghu's daughter is?

Elder

She has left her village, and we are glad.

Sanyasi
Where has she gone?

Elder
Do you ask where? It is all one to her where she goes. [Goes out.

Sanyasi

My darling has gone to seek a somewhere in the emptiness of nowhere. She must find me.

47

(A crowd of VILLAGERS enter.)

First Man

So our King's son is going to be married to-night.

Second Man

Can you tell me, when is the wedding hour?

Third Man

The wedding hour is only for the bridegroom and the bride. What have we got to do with it?

A Woman

But won't they give us cakes for the happy day?

First Man

Cakes? You are silly. My uncle lives in the town—I have heard from him that we shall have curds and parched rice. Second Man

Grand.

Fourth Man

But we shall have a great deal more water than curds. You may be sure of that.

First Man

Moti, you are a dull fellow. Water in the curds at a prince's wedding!

Fourth Man

But we are not princes ourselves. Panchu. For us, poor people, the curds have the trick of turning into water most parts.

First Man

Look there. That son of the charcoal-burner is still busy with his work. We mustn't allow that.

Second Man

We shall burn him into charcoal, if he does not come out.

Sanyasi

Do you know, any of you, where is Raghu's daughter?

The Woman

She has gone away.

Sanyasi

Where?

Woman.

That we don't know.

First Man

But we are sure that she is not the bride for our prince.

[They laugh and go out.

(Enters a WOMAN, with a child.)

Woman

My obeisance to you, father. Let my child touch your feet with his head. He is sick. Bless him, father.

Sanyasi

But, daughter, I am no longer a Sanyasi. Do not mock me with your salutation.

Woman

Then who are you? What are you doing?

Sanyasi.

I am seeking.

Woman

Seeking whom?

Sanyasi

Seeking my lost world back.—Do you know Raghu's daughter? Where is she?

Woman

Raghu's daughter? She is dead.

Sanyasi

No, she cannot be dead. No. No.

Woman

But what is her death to you, Sanvasi?

Sanyasi

Not only to me; it would be death to all.

Woman

I do not understand you.

Sanyasi She can never be dead.

heart, I know not for what.

My child, what is this? Why doyou forget to put on dresses that befit your beauty and youth? Where are your ornaments? My beautiful dawn, how can you absent the touch of gold from your limbs?

Malini

Mother, there are some who are born poor, even in a king's house. Wealth does not cling to those whose destiny it is to find riches in poverty.

Queen

That the child whose only language was the baby cry should talk to me in such middles!—My heart quakes in fear when I listen to you. Where did you pick up your new creed, which goes against all our holy books? My child, they say that the Buddhist monks, from whom you take your lessons, practise black arts; that they cast their spells upon men's minds, confounding them with lies. But I ask you, is religion a thing that one has to find by secking? Is it not like sunlight, given to you for all days? I am a simple woman. I do not understand men's creeds and dogmas. I only know that women's true objects of worship come to their own arms, without asking, in the shape of their husbands and their children.

(Enters KING.)

King

My daughter, storm clouds are gathering over the King's house. Go no farther along your perilous path. Pause, if only for a short time.

Queen

What dark words are these?

King

My foolish child, if you must bring your new creed into this land of the old, let it not come like a sudden flood threatening those who dwell on the bank. Keep your faith to your own self. Rake not up public hatred and mockery against it.

Queen

Do not chide my girl, and teach her the crookedness of your diplomacy. If my child should choose her own teachers and pursue her own path, I do not know who can blame her.

King

Queen, my people are agitated, they clamour for my daughter's banishment.

Queen

Banishment? Of your own daughter?

King

King

Queen

Heresy indeed! Are all truths confined only in their musty old books? Let them fling away their worm-eaten creeds, and come and take their lessons from this child. I tell you, King, she is not a common gitl,—she is a pure flame of fire. Some divine spirit has taken birth in her. Do not despise, her, test some day you strike your forehead, and weep, and find her no more.

Malini

Father, grant to your people their request. The great moment has come. Banish me.

King

Why, child? What want do you feel in your father's house?

Malini

Listen to me, father. Those, who cry for my banishment, cry for me.

tell you what I have in my mind. Leave me without regret, like the tree that sheds its flowers unheeding. Let me go out to all men,-for the world has claimed me from the King's hands.

King

Child, I do not understand you.

Malini

Father, you are a King. Be strong and fulfil your mission.

Queen

Child, is there no place for you here, where you were born? Is the burden of the world waiting for your little shoulders?

Malini

I dream, while I am awake, that the wind is wild, and the water is troubled; the night is dark, and the boat is ranored in the haven. Where is the captain, who shall take the wanderers home? I feel I know the path, and the boat will thrill with life at my touch, and speed on.

Queen

Do you hear, King? Whose wordsare these? Do they come from this little girl? Is she your daughter, and have I borne her?

$K_{ing}$

Yes, even as the night bears thedawn,—the dawn that is not of thenight, but of all the world.

Queen

King, have you nothing to keep herbound to your house,—this image of light?—My darling, your hair hascome loose on your shoulders. Let.

me bind it up.-Do they talk banishment, King? If this be a pa of their creed, then let come the ne religion, and let those Brahmins be taught afresh what is truth.

KingQueen, let us take away our child from this baleony. Do you see the crowd gathering in the street?

[They all go out. (Enter a crowd of BRAHMINS, in the street, before the palace bulcony. They shout.) Brahmins

Banishment of the King's daughter! Remankar Friends, keep your resolution firm. The woman, as an enemy, is to be dreaded more than all others. For eason is futile against her and forces are ashamed; man's power gladly surrenders itself to her powerlessness, and she takes her shelter in the strongholds of our own hearts.

First Brahmin

We must have audience with our King, to tell him that a snake has raised its poisonous hood from his own nest, and is aiming at the heart of our sacred religion.

Supriya

Religion? I am stupid. I do not understand you. Tell me, sir, is it your religion that claims the banishment of an innocent girl?

First Realmin

You are a marplot, Supriya, you are ever a hindrance to all our enterprises.

Second Brahmin

We have united in defence of our faith, and you come like a subtle rift in the wall, like a thin smile on the compressed lips of contempt.

Supriya

You think that, by the force of numbers, you will determine truth, and drown reason by your united shouts?

First Brahmin

This is rank insolence, Supriya.

Supriya

The insolence is not mine but theirs who shape their scripture to fit their own narrow hearts.

Second Brahmin

Drive him out. He is none of us.

First Brahmin

We have all agreed upon the banishment of the Princess.—He who thinks differently, let him leave this assembly.

Supriya

Brahmins, it was a mistake on your part to elect me as one of your lengue, I am neither your shadow, nor an echo of your texts. I never admit that truth sides with the shrillest voice, and I am ashamed to own as mine a ereed that depends on force for its existence. (To Kemankar.) Dear friend, let me go.

Kemankar

No, I will not. I know you are firm in your action, only doubting when you debate. Keep silence, my friend; for the time is evil.

Second Brahmin

Supriya

Of all things the blind certitude of stupidity is the hardest to bear. To think of saving your religion by banishing a girl from her home! But let me know what is her offence. Does he not maintain that truth and love are the body and soul of religion? If so, is that not the essence of all cered's?

Kemankar

Religion is one in its essence, but different in its forms. The water is one, yet by its different banks it is bounded and preserved for different peoples. What if you have a well-spring of your own in your heart, spurn not your neighbours who must go for their draught of water to their ancestral pond with the green of its gradual slopes mellowed by ages and its ancient trees bearing eternal fruit.

Supriya

1 shall follow you, my friend, as I have ever done in my life, and not argue.

(Enters third Brainnin.)

Third Brahmin

I have good news. Our words have prevailed, and the King's army is about to take our side openly.

Second Brahmin

The army ?-I do not quite like it.

First Brahmin

Nor do I. It smells of rebellion.

Second Brahmin

Kemankar, I am not for such extreme measures.

First Brahmin

Our faith will give us victory, not our arms. Let us make penance, and recite sacred verses. Let us call on the names of our guardian gods.

Second Brahmin

Come, Goddess, whose wrath is the sole weapon of thy worshippers, deign to take form and crush even to dust the blind pride of unbelievers. Prove to us the strength of our faith, and lead us to victory.

Goddess.—Thou hast come at last, as a daughter of man, withdrawing all thy terrible power into the tender beauty of a girl. Whence hast thou come, Mother? What is thy wish?

Malini

I have come down to my exile at your call.

Second Brahmin

To exile from heaven, because thy children of earth have called thee ?

First Brahmin

Forgive us, Mother. Utter ruin threatens this world and it cries aloud for thy help.

Supriya

Kemankar

It was nothing but a dream. Open your eyes, and wake up.

the wilderness of doctrines,-I never 74 found peace. The God, who belongs to the multitude, and the God of the books are not my own God. These never answered my questions and never consoled me. But, at last, I have found the divine breathing and alive in the living world of men.

Kemankar

Alas, my friend, it is a fearful moment when a man's heart deceives him. Then blind desire becomes his gospel and fancy usurps the dread throne of his gods. Is yonder moon, lying asleep among soft fleecy clouds, the true emblem of everlasting reality? The naked day will come to-morrow, and the hungry crowd begin again to draw the sea of existence with their thousand nets. And then this moon light night will hardly be remembered but as a thin film of unreality made of sleep and shadows and delusions. The magic web, woven of the clusive charms of a woman, is like that,—and can it take the place of lighest truth? Can any creed, born of your fancy, satisfy the gaping thirst of the midday, when it is wide awake in its-burning heat?

Supriya

Alas, I know not.

Kemankar

Then shake yourself up from your dreams, and look before you. The ancient house is on fire, whose nurslings are the ages. The spirits of our forefathers are hovering over the impending ruins, like crying birds over their perishing nests. Is this the time for vacillation, when the night is dark, the enemies knocking at the gate, the cittens asleep, and men drunken with delusions laying their hands upon their brothers' throats?

Supriya

I will stand by you.

Kemankar

I must go away from here.

Suprina

Where? And for what?

Kemankar

To foreign lands, I shall bring soldiers from outside. For this conflagration cries for blood, to be quenched.

Supriya

But our own soldiers are ready.

Kemankar

(Enter King, with the Prince, in the balconu.)

King

I fear I must decide to banish my daughter.

Prince

Yes, Sire, delay will be dangerous.

King

Gently, my son, gently. Never doubt that I will do my duty. Be sure I will banish her.

[PRINCE goes.

(Enters QUEEN.)

Tell me, King, where is she? Have you hidden her, even from me?

King

Whom?

Queen My Malini.

King

What? Is she not in her room?

No, I cannot find her. Go with your soldiers and search for her through all the town, from house to house. The citizens have stolen her. Banish them all. Empty the whole town, till they return her.

King

I will bring her back,-even if my Kingdom goes to ruin.

[The Branuins and soldiers bring Malini, with torches lighted.

Queen

My darling, my cruel child. I never keep my eyes off you,—how could you evade me, and go out?

Second Brahmin

Do not be angry with her, Queen. She came to our home to give us her blessings.

First Brahmin

Is she only yours? And does she not belong to us as well?

Second Brahmin

Our little mother, do not forget us. You are our star, to lead us across the pathless sea of life.

Malini

My door has been opened for you. These walls will nevermore separate us.

Brahmins

Blessed are we, and the land where we were born. [They go.

Malini

Mother, I have brought the outer world into your house. I seem to have lost the bounds of my body. I am one with the life of this world.

Queen

Yes, child. Now you shall never need to go out. Bring in the world to you, and to your mother.—It is close upon the second watch of the night. Sit here. Calm yourself. This flaming life in you is burning out all sleen from your eyes.

MALINI and SUPRIYA

Malini

What can I say to you? I do not know how to argue. I have not read your books.

Supriya

I am learned only among the fools of learning. I have left all arguments and books behind me. Lead me, princess, and I shall follow you, as the shadow follows the lamp.

Malini

But, Brahmin, when you question me, I lose all my power and do not know how to answer you. It is a wonder to me to see that even you, who know everything, come to me with your questions.

Supriya

Not for knowledge I come to you. Let me forget all that I have ever known. Roads there are, without number, but the light is missing.

Malini

Alas, sir, the more you ask me, the more I feel my poverty. Where is that voice in me, which came down from heaven, like an unseen flash of lightning, into my heart? Why did you not come that day, but keep away in doubt? Now that I have met the world face to face my heart has grown timid, and I do not know how to hold the helm of the great ship that I must guide. I feel I am alone, and the world is large, and ways are many, and the light from the sky comes of a sudden to vanish the next moment. You who are wise and learned, will you help me?

Supriya

I shall deem myself fortunate, if you ask my help.

Malini

There are times when despair comes to choke all the life-currents; when suddenly, amilist crowds of men, my eyes turn upon myself and I am frightened. Will you befriend me in those moments of blankness, and utter me one word of hope that will bring me back to life?

Supriya

I shall keep myself ready. I shall make my heart simple and pure, and my mind peaceful, to be able truly to serve you.

(Enters Attendant.)

Attendant

The citizens have come, asking to see you.

Malini

Not to-day. Ask their pardon for me. I must have time to fill my exhausted mind, and have rest to get rid of weariness. (ATTENDANT goes.)
Tell me again about Kemankar, your friend. I long to know what your life has been and its trials.

Supriya

Kemankar is my friend, my brother, my master. His mind has been firm and strong, from early days, while my thoughts are always flickering with doubts. Yet he has ever kept me close to his heart, as the moon does its dark spots. But, however strong a ship may be, if it harbours a small hole in its bottom, it must sink.—
That I would make you sink, Kemankar, was in the law of nature.

Malini

You made him sink?

Supriya

Yes, I did. The day when the rebellion slunk away in shame before the light in your face and the music in the air that touched you, Kemankar alone was unmoved. He left me behind him, and said that he must go to the foreign land to bring soldiers, and uproot the new creed from the sacred soil of Kashi.—You know what followed. You made me live again in a new land of birth, "Love for all life" was a mere word, waiting from the old time to be made real,—and I saw that truth in you in flesh. My heart cried for my friend, but he was away, out of my reach; then came his letter, in which he wrote that he was coming with a foreign army at his back, to wash away the new faith in blood, and to punish you with death.—I could wait no longer.

Malini

Why did you forget yourself, Supriya? Why did fear overcome you? Have I not room enough in my house for him and his soldiers?

I showed the letter to the King.

(Enters Kino.)

King

Come to my arms, Supriya; I went at a fit time to surprise Kemankar and to capture him. An hour later, and a thunderbolt would have burst upon my house in my sleep. You are my friend, Supriva, come——

Supriya

God forgive me.

King

Do you not know that a King's love is not unsubstantial? I give you leave to ask for any reward that comes to your mind. Tell me, what do you want?

Supriya

Nothing, Sire, nothing. I shall live, begging from door to door.

King

Only ask me, and you shall have provinces worthy to tempt a king.

Supriya

They do not tempt me.

King

I understand you. I know towards what moon you raise your hands. Mad youth, be brave to ask even that which seems so impossible. Why are you silent? Do you remember the day when you prayed for my Malini's banishment? Will you repeat that prayer to me, to lead my daughter to exile from her father's house?—My daughter, do you know that you owe your life to this noble youth? And is it hard for you to pay off that debt with your—?

Supriya

For pity's sake, Sire, no more of this. Worshippers there are many who by lifelong devotion have gained the highest fulfilment of their desire. Could I be counted one of them I should be happy. But to accept it from the King's hands as the reward of treachery? Lady mine, you have the plenitude and peace of your greatness; you know not the secret cravings of a poverty-stricken soul. I dare not ask from you an atom more than that pity of love which you have for every creature in the world.

Malini

Father, what is your punishment for the captive?

King

He shall die.

Malini

niann

On my knees I beg from you his pardon.

King

But he is a rebel, my child.

Supriya

Do you judge him, King? He also judged you, when he came to punish you, not to rob your kingdom.

Malini

Spare him his life, father. Then only will you have the right to bestow on him your friendship, who has saved you from a great peril.

King

What do you say, Supriya? Shall I restore a friend to his friend's arms?

Supriya

That will be king-like in its grace.

King

It will come in its time, and you will find back your friend. But a

King's generosity must not stop there. I must give you something which exceeds your hope,-vet not as a mere reward. You have won my heart, and my heart is ready to offer you its best treasure.-My child, where was this shyness in you before now? Your dawn had no tint of rose,-its light was white and dazzling. But to-day a tearful mist of tenderness sweetly tempers it for mortal eyes. (To Supriya.) Leave my feet, rise up and come to my heart. Happiness is pressing it like pain. Leave me now for a while. I want to be alone with my Malini. (Supriya goes.) I feel I have found back my child once again,-not the bright star of the sky, but the sweet flower that blossoms on earthly soil. She is my daughter, the darling of my heart.

(Enters ATTENDANT.)

Attendant

The captive, Kemankar, is at the door.

King

Bring him in. Here comes he, with his eyes fixed, his proud head held high, a brooding shadow on his forehead, like a thunder-cloud motionless in a suspended storm.

Malini

The iron chain is shamed of itself upon those limbs. The insult to greatness is its own insult. He looks like a god defying his captivity.

(Enters KEMANKAR in chains.)

King

What punishment do you expect from my hands?

Kemankar

Death.

King

But if I pardon you?

Kemankar

Then I shall have time again to complete the work I began.

King

You seem out of love with your life. Tell me your last wish, if you have any.

Kemankar

I want to see my friend, Supriya, before I die,

King

(To the attendant.) Ask Supriys to come.

Malini

There is a power in that face that frightens me. Father, do not let Supriva come.

King

Your fear is baseless, child.

(Supriya enters, and walks towards Kemankar, with arms extended.)

Kemankar

No, no, not yet. First let us have our say, and then the greeting of love.

-Come closer to me. You know I am poor in words,—and my time is short. My trial is over, but not yours. Tell me, why have you done this?

Supriya

Friend, you will not understand mc. I had to keep my faith, even at the cost of my love.

Kemankar

I understand you, Supriya. I have seen that girl's face, glowing with an inner light, looking like * voice becoming visible. You offered, to the fire of those eyes, the faith in your fathers' creed, the faith in your country's good, and built up a new one on the foundation of a treason.

Supriya

Friend, you are right. My faith has come to me perfected in the form of that woman. Your sacred bookswere dumb to me. I have read, by the help of the light of those eyes, the ancient book of creation, and I have known that true faith is there. where there is man, where there is love. It comes from the mother in her devotion, and it goes back to her from her child. It descends in the gift of a giver and it appears in the heart of him who takes it. I accepted the bond of this faith which reveals the infinite in man, when I set my eyes upon that face full of light and love and peace of hidden wisdom.

Kemankar

I also once set my eyes on that face, and for a moment dreamt that religion had come at last, in the form of a woman, to lead man's heart to heaven. For a moment, music broke out from the very ribs of my breast and all my life's hopes blossomed in their fulness. Yet did not I break through these meshes of illusion to wander in foreign lands? Did not I suffer humiliation from unworthy hands in patience, and bear the pain of separation from you, who have been my friend from my infancy? And what have you been doing meanwhile? You sat in the shade of the King's garden, and spent your sweet leisure in idly weaving a lie to condone your infatuation and calling it a religion.

Supriya

My friend, is not this world wide enough to hold men whose natures are widely different? Those countless stars of the sky, do they fight for the mastery of the One? Cannot faiths hold their separate lights in peace for the separate worlds of minds that need them?

Kemankar Words, mere words. To let falsehood and truth live side by side in amity, the infinite world is not wide enough. That the corn ripening for the food of man should make room for thorny weeds, love is not so hatefully all-loving. That one should be allowed to sap the sure ground of friendship with betrayal of trust, could tolerance be so traitorously wide as that? That one should die like a thief to defend his faith and the other live in honour and wealth who betrayed it—no, no, the world is not so stony-hard as to bear without pain such hideous contradictions in its hosom.

SACRIFICE

Supriya

(To MALINI.) All these hurts and insults I accept in your name, my lady. Kemankar, you are paying your life for your faith,—I am paying more. It is your love, dearer than my life.

Kemankar

No more of this prating. All truths must be tested in death's court. My friend, do you remember our student days when we used to wrangle the whole night through, to come at last to our teacher, in the morning, to know in a moment which of us was right. Let that morning break now,

Let us go there to that land of the final, and stand before death with all our questions, where the changing mixt of doubts will vanish at a breath, and the mountain peaks of eternal truth will appear, and we two fools will look at each other and laugh.—
Dear friend, bring before death that which you deem your best and immortal.

Supriya

Friend, let it be as you wish.

Kemankar

Then come to my heart. You had wandered I as from your comrade, in the infinite distance,—now, dear friend, come eternally close to me, and accept from one, who loves you, the gift of death. (Strikes SUTRIYA with his chains, and SUTRIYA [alla.)

SACPTRICE Kemankar (Embracing the dead body of

What is the use of scriptures, and the teacher and his instructions ?- My master, my father, what wild words are these of mine? I was living in a dream. There stands the temple, cruel and immovable as truth. What was your order, my teacher? I have not forgotten it. (Bringing out the knife.) keenness. Have you any other order to give me?

Raghupati

My boy, my darling, how can I tell you how deep is my love for you?

Jaising

No, Master, do not tell me of love. Let me think only of duty. Love, like the green grass, and the trees, and life's music, is only for the surface of the world. It comes and vanishes like a dream. But underneath is duty, like a dream to thing can move.

Chandpal

Gowinda

Nakshatra?

Chanàpus

He has promised to Raghupati to bring your blood to the Goddess.

Govinda

To the Goddess? Then I cannot blame him. For a man loses his humanity when it concerns his gods. You go to your work and leave me alone.

[CHANDPAL goes out.

(Addressing the image.) Accept these flowers, Goddess, and let your creatures live in peace. Mother, those who are weak in this world are so helpless, and those who are strong are so cruel. Greed is pittless, ignorance blind, and pride takes no heed when it crushes the small under its foot. Mother, do not raise your sword and lick your lips for blood; do not set brother against brother, and woman against man. If it is your desire to strike me by the hand of one I love, then let it be fulfilled. For the sin has to ripen to its ugliest limits before it can burst and die a hideous death; and when King's blood is shed by a brother's hand, then lust for blood will disclose its demon face, leaving its disguise as a goddess. If such be your wish I bow my head to it.

[Jaising rushes in.

Jaising

Govinda

It was not the Goddess. I heard the familiar voice of Raghupati.

Jaising

The voice of Raghupati? No, no! Drive me not from doubt to doubt. It is all the same, whether the voice comes from the Goddess, or from my master.—

[He unsheathes his knife, and then throws it away.

O fool, for whom have you upturned your cup of life, emptying it to the last drop?—for this unanswering void,—truthless, merciless, and motherless?

(Enters Aparna.)

Aparna, they drive you away from the temple; yet you come back over and over again. For you are true, and truth cannot be banished. We enshrine falsehood in our temple, with all devotion; yet she is never there. Leave me not, Aparna. Sit here by my side. Why are you so sad, my darling? Do you miss some god, who is god no longer? But is there any need of God in this little world of ours? Let us be fearlessly godless and come closer to each other. They want our blood. And for thisthey have come down to the dust of our earth, leaving their magnificence of heaven. For in their heaven there are no men, no creatures, who can suffer. No, my girl, there is no Goddess.

Jaising, do not be cruel. Can you not feel what I have suffered?

Jaising

Am I cruel? Is this your last word to me? Cruel, as that block of stone, whom I called Goddess? Aparna, my beloved, if you were the Goddess, you would know what fire is this that burns my heart. But you are my Goddess. Do you know how I know it?

Aparna

Tell me.

Raghupati

Away, evil omen. (Aparna goes out.) But if Jaising never comes back ? No, he will not break his promise-Victory to thee, Great Kali, the giver of all success!-But if he meet with obstruction? If he be caught and lose his life at the guards' hands !-Victory to thee, watchful Goddess, Mother invincible! Do not allow thy repute to be lost, and thine enemies to laugh at thee. If thy children must lose their pride and faith in their Mother, and bow down their heads in shame before the rebels, who then will remain in this orphaned world to carry thy banner ?- I bear his steps. But so soon ? Is he coming back foiled in his purpose? No, that cannot be. Thy miracle needs not time, O Mistress of all time, terrible with thy necklace of human skulls.

[JAISING Tushes in. Jaising, where is the blood?

Yes. I am the chief of Trichur. You are the King of many kings, and it not wash away your houses, and ruin the country! The joy of the terrible is blind,—its term of life is short, and it must gather its plunder in fearful haste, like a mad elephant uprooting the lotus from the pond. Wise counsels will come, in their turn, when the great force is spent,—No, I must not see the Brahmire.

(Enters AMARU, the chieftain of Trichur hills.)

Amaru

Sire, I have come at your bidding, and I own you as my King.

King

You are the chief of this place?

Amaru

Yes. I am the chief of Trichur. You are the King of many kings, and I am your servant. I have a daughter, whose name is Ha. She is young and comely. Do not think me vain, when I say that she is worthy to be your spouse. She is waiting outside. Permit me, King, and I shall send her to you as the best greeting of this land of flowers.

[He goes out.

Vikram

What a fortunate man is he. But I warn you, girl, gods are jealous of our love. Listen to my secret. There was a time when I despised the whole world, and only loved. I woke up from my dream, and found that the world was there,—only my love burst as a bubble. What is his name, for whom you wait?
